

A Viking Boy

... wears a tunic and long leggings or trousers.
... doesn't go to school, but learns everything from his parents.
... learns to ward off the blows from an enemy with his wooden shield.

When he grows up he may sail to another land in a Viking ship.

As a man he might speak at the "ting" (assembly) where local matters are discussed and decided.

Can you make a design on this boy's shield?

Viking shoes are made of soft leather. Winter shoes have the hair left on them for extra warmth. No matter how cold the weather is, he always pins his cloak so that his sword arm is uncovered.
